Index to Memorial to the Jews Deported from France.

------------	---------	--	----------	--------

There were some 80,000 Jews deported from France during the Holocaust period. They primarily went to the Auschwitz concentration camp in some 70 railway convoys. The lists for these convoys appear in Memorial de la deportation des Juifs de France, R940.52/K63M, which lists each person alphabetically by convoy. The French Jewish Genealogical Society prepared this index in a single alphabet indicating which surnames appear in which convoy lists. The lists themselves show the name of the individuals and in most cases, date of birth, place of birth, and a country code.

Emigration

Germanic Emigrants Register.

Microfiche	23 fiche		Microfiche	Germany
------------	----------	--	------------	---------

This index covers the area formerly included in the German Empire of 1871. It contains 277,000 names of emigrants with the date of his or her being mentioned in a specific record, birth date, time of emigration, and destination or last known residence after emigration. The period of time covered by the index ranges from 1820 to 1914. The place of origin is not given in the index, but it may be ordered from Germanic Emigrants Register, P.O. Box 17 20, W-2840 Diepholz, Germany for a fee.

There are two sections to the departure records from the port of Hamburg in Germany. The direct passenger lists are those for ships which left Germany and went directly to their destination without stopping at any other European port. The indirect passenger lists are those for ships which stopped at other European or British ports before sailing for their final destination. There are indexes to both sets. It is important to realize that the indirect route was the cheaper one. In the case of Great Britain passengers might have sailed to Hull and then taken the train to Liverpool, Glasgow, or another British port for the last leg of their journey.

The emigration lists for 185–1854 are alphabetically arranged by the initial letter of the surname of the head of the family. The other members of the household are not generally named. Accordingly, it is advisable to examine Germans to America, R929.30893/G373/1988, where one may be able to identify the names and ages of other passengers.

There is a fifteen year index which is a card index to the direct passenger lists for the period 1856–1871, but it is incomplete. One should search the direct and indirect indexes for any relevant time if this index does not contain the name of the appropriate passenger.

The lists for 1850–1854 are in alphabetical order so there was no reason to create an index. For the years 1855–1914 each volume or band is in alphabetical order by the initial letter of the surname of the head of the household. The indexes for these years will show the page number where the passenger list will be found in the lists. From 1911 to July 1914 and from 1920 to 1934 the indirect and direct indexes are combined.

If the emigrant traveled on a ship containing fewer than 25 steerage passengers, the vessel was not qualified as an emigrant ship and did not need to submit a passenger lists between the years 1871 and 1887. The names of these emigrants were recorded in two separate volumes. The first index cover the period December 1879 to 1883, and the second covers 1871 to December 1879. Many of the entries are out of alphabetical sequence. After 1871 ships with less than 25 passengers were classified as emigrant ships.

During the years 1915–1919 there were no passenger lists kept since this was during World War I. The indexes for the years 1920–1934 are in alphabetical order.

Clifford Neal Smith's Reconstructed Passenger Lists for Hamburg, German, R929.343/S644R, covers the years 1850 and 1851.

Hamburg Passengers from the Kingdom of Poland and the Russian Empire Indirect Passage to New York: 1855–June 1873, R929.30899/M899H/1996, by Geraldine Moser and Marlene Silverman is especially helpful for finding any Polish or Russian passengers on these lists. Most of the names in this work appear to be Jewish. Most of the indirect lists pertain to ships leaving Hamburg via the British Isles with the final destination of New York City.

The records represent approximately 30% of the departures between the years 1850–1891.
